BULLETIN No. 61

MOUNT ASSINIBOINE FOR THE TRAIL RIDE OF 1941

After careful examination of alternative routes for the Annual Trail Ride of 1941, it has been decided to make Mount Assiniboine once more the objective and lay-over point, with this difference from previous rides that it will have a new approach. First of all it was decided to explore the possibilities of an approach to Mount Assiniboine from the South-West by the Simpson River and Ferro Pass, and Alan Carscallen made a trip over this trail with Erling Strom, lessee of Mount Assiniboine Lodge. The survey report showed that this approach offered very spectacular scenery, but, as so much of the trail was outside the National Parks System, the cost of clearing deadfall from the trail would have to be undertaken by ourselves. Also the cost of motor transport to the starting point south of Vermilion Crossing would force us to raise the rate above the $50. which we hoped to retain for the round trip.

Claude Brewster, our very competent and experienced outfitter, suggested another new approach to Mount Assiniboine in a letter from which the following paragraphs are quoted:

"My suggestion for the 1941 trip would be to start the ride from Canmore and end at Banff. My reason for starting the ride from Canmore instead of Banff is because the scenery gradually grows more spectacular each day of the Ride instead of becoming less grand."

TRAIL RIDE OF 1941

To Mount Assiniboine by way of Canmore, White Man's Pass, Spray Lakes and return by the Valley of the Rocks, Simpson Summit, Rock Isle Lake and Healey Creek, to Banff.

Date: — Friday, July 25th, to Tuesday, July 29th.

Rate: — $50. including bus transportation to Canmore, meals, tent accommodation, services of guides and gratuities to guides and helpers.

"I like the following itinerary for the trip. Start from Canmore, go to Spray Lakes and come into Assiniboine over the old Assiniboine Pass. By coming in over this pass the first view of Assiniboine Mountain is most spectacular. In fact, on a clear day, it is just as breath-taking as one's first view of Marvel Lake looking down over Wonder Pass. The party could get the fishing at Spray Lakes and the streams along the way, besides at Marvel Lake.

"For the side trips on the lay-over day at Assiniboine, those who wished cou'd go down to Marvel Lake. Those who wanted just scenery or more riding could go to the top of Wonder Pass for the view of the three lakes in the valley below and then come back and go to Ogg Pass, where they would get that marvelous view of Brewster Pass."

Our President, Mr. Bardwell, expressed his approval o Claude Brewster's suggestion for the new approach in a letter from which the following is an extract :

"I believe that this new approach to Mount Assiniboine will attract a sufficient number of riders. Even those who went on the last ride to Assiniboine should be interested because of this new approach. The first night's camp would undoubtedly be near the Spray Lakes where the fishing would be good and there would be plenty of feed for the horses.

"Although I have never been to Assiniboine, every one with whom I have talked who has made the trip has spoken enthusiastically, and in this year when people from the United States should in large numbers look to Canada as their vacation goal, it certainly would be a good thing to offer them a spectacular ride. It seems to me that this new approach to Assiniboine is just that, and it comes at a most appropriate time. People who like to take pictures should find plenty of beautiful scenery. I am strong for it."

Jim Brewster suggested that while the return trip to Banff should be by way of the Valley of the Rocks, Simpson Summit and Healey Creek, an excellent site for the third camp would be at Rock Isle Lake, a short distance before Sunshine Valley is reached. This lake has been stocked with trout, which are plentiful though not so large as in Marvel Lake.

Claude Brewster also made the suggestion of having the Pow-Wow on the Sports Field below the Banff Springs Hotel. Co-operation has been promised by Mr. T. E. Chester, Assistant General Manager of Hotels, Western Lines, Canadian Pacific Railway, in making this possible. The Superintendent of Banff National Park has also assured us that the trails in the Park will all be in first-class condition for the Trail Ride.

The date of the Annual Trail Ride will be as usual from Friday to Tuesday on the last week-end of July, Friday July 25th to Tuesday July 29th. The Trail Riders will motor from Banff to Canmore early on the morning of July 25th, and start the ride from that point over Whiteman's Pass to Spray Lakes. Duffle for the packtrain must be ready on the afternoon of Thursday, July 24th. The rate which includes motor transport from Banff to Canmore, and gratuities to guides, will be $50.00 in Canadian money.

Members who expect to be able to join this Annual Trail Ride are requested to advise the Secretary-Treasurer, Room 318, Windsor Station, Montreal, or L. S. Crosby, Western Secretary, Banff, Alberta.

TRAIL RIDERS IN THE WAR ZONE

Of the many Christmas greetings received by the Secretary-Treasurer, the most inspiring was one from Ralph and Diana Moore from Clarence House, London, S.W.4, England. The scene shown is a peaceful English landscape, while inside the card Miss Moore has written:

"All our windows have been blown in from adjacent bombs—such a mess! But the roof is on up to date!"

THE LATE L. MCI. SPACKMAN

Trail Riders will regret the passing of one of our oldest active members, Mr. L. Mcl. Spackman, of Montreal, who was prevented by failing health from joining us on the Trail Ride of 1940, although he had hoped to make it, so that he could qualify for his 500 mile button.

Mr. Spackman was over eighty years old, but, so long as he was able, took his morning ride on Mount Royal, even in winter. He was keenly interested in our Order and brought us a number of new members. For a time he served on the Executive Committee, but in view of the small likelihood of his being able to be present at Committee meetings, asked to have his name dropped. To use the old phrase of Shakespeare's day, he was "a very lovely gentleman".

REGINALD TOWNSEND CUP

Trail Riders who took part in the 1940 Ride are reminded that a handsome silver cup was presented by one of our Charter Members, Reginald Townsend, of New York, for the best photograph taken on the Ride. The adjudication is made by three competent critics, none of whom is a Trail Rider, and a replica of the Club suitably engraved is awarded to the winner, whose name is inscribed on the original. Prints should be sent to the Secretary-Treasurer, Room 318 Windsor Station, Montreal, Quebec, without any other identification of the sender than a nom de plume, the name of the photographer being enclosed in a sealed envelope, on the outside of which the nom de plume is written. The last date for entries has been extended by request to March 1st, 1941. The judges prefer prints to be submitted on glossy paper and of a size not exceeding 8 by 10 inches.

ACROSS CANADA ON HORSE BACK

by MARY BOSANQUET

It was in May 1939, that with the horse Timothy and twenty five pounds of pack, I set out from Vancouver to ride to Montreal.

In Vancouver I had met a man from Winnipeg. "If you ever get to Winnipeg, come and see me," he said, "but you will never get through the mountains!"

With these words to encourage me, I set off up the Caribou Trail.

Our first check came after we had travelled less than a hundred miles. For at Hope I was blandly informed that the packtrail which I hoped to follow from there to Princeton was never opened until July.

However after days of hard work, I finally persuaded the postmaster's wife and a young packer to help me make the attempt, and on June the first we set out. Then came two days of hair-raising experience for me and Timothy. The creeks were in freshet and the horses plunged up to their shoulders in the surging floods, sliding dangerously among the rocks and clambering out breathless upon the further side. Often we scrambled along naked mountain sides, where the trail was obliterated by rock slides, and where every stone dislodged by our feet crashed headlong down into the valley below. At one point we reached an area devastated by fire, and chopped our way for three hours through windfalls, and at about five thousand feet we came into the snow-line, where the horses floundered and sweated in piling drifts.

But we reached the summit without mishap, and I shall never forget the joy of our camp on the other side, with the snow of the firelight under the dark trees, and the knowledge in my heart of the first mountain pass successfully surmounted.

The Cascade Range Timothy and I crossed alone, and engraved on my memory is the wettest night I have ever endured, when I lay out on some flats, and rain fell steadily from nine p.m. until five in the morning!

The Selkirks we crossed by Rose's Pass, from Grey Creek, at the southern end of the Kootenay lake, to Mary's ville near Kimberley. Again I had company and was very glad of it, for the pass 8000 feet at the summit was still deep in snow, and the trail was hard to follow for one who did not know it.

It was when we were climbing up the Kootenay River trail into the Rockies proper, that we met the grizzly.

I might not have seen him for he was very still; but Timothy suddenly stopped dead, sweat broke out on his shoulder, and in the silence I could hear his heart beating. Then I looked between his ears and there was the bear six feet of him, standing at gaze, upright beside a cedar. Proud as Lucifer he was. The mountains we his; he knew it and I knew it. Timothy and I did not run; we walked slowly past the king and never turned our heads, but I could feel his eyes in my back. I can feel them now, and my spine pruckles...

In Calgary I bought a second horse, and the three of us set out into the prairies. Then the heat came. For nearly two weeks they told us every day that the temperature was over one hundred in the shade — though as far as I could make out, there was no shade.

MARY BOSANQUET
Adventurous English trail rider who rode across Canada, 1940.

About this time I had a mix-up with Timothy and broke my wrist, which made me even more dependent than I was before upon the kindness of the westerners. They were unfailing. They washed my clothes, saddled and packed the horses, and would ride out miles with me to open the wire gates, which are hard enough with two sound arms, but almost impossible with only one.

From Regina we followed the beautiful Qu'Appelle Valley, staying sometimes in Indian schools and once with a family of full-blooded Crees.

We left Winnipeg in the Fall, and before we were half way to Fort William, winter was upon us.

This country east of Winnipeg was the wildest and loneliest I have ever seen. Rock, river and lake, swamp and swale and forest, forest, forest. No farms, no ranches. Sometimes forty miles without so much as a shack. And strange, foreign families who did not understand.

I remember one dark night when I went to a lonely house to ask for shelter, and an old man came out with a gun, scaring me so much that I turned tail and fled away down the road, dragging the disappointed horses after me. We trudged on through darkness and snow for miles before we came to another light. Here we were mercifully more successful, for we found an enchanting family of lake fishers, who soon had the horses installed in their garage, and me asleep behind a curtain in the living-room, too tired even to eat any supper.

Eventually at the end of November, we reached Sault Sainte Marie, and set out on the last lap of the trip to Montreal. But at this point one of my horses went lame, and not liking to leave him, I settled down to work on a farm for the winter. I was so happy in the little community that I stayed for eight months.

It was not until the haying was over, that I hit the trail again. And so at last we have reached Montreal, and done what they told me was impossible.

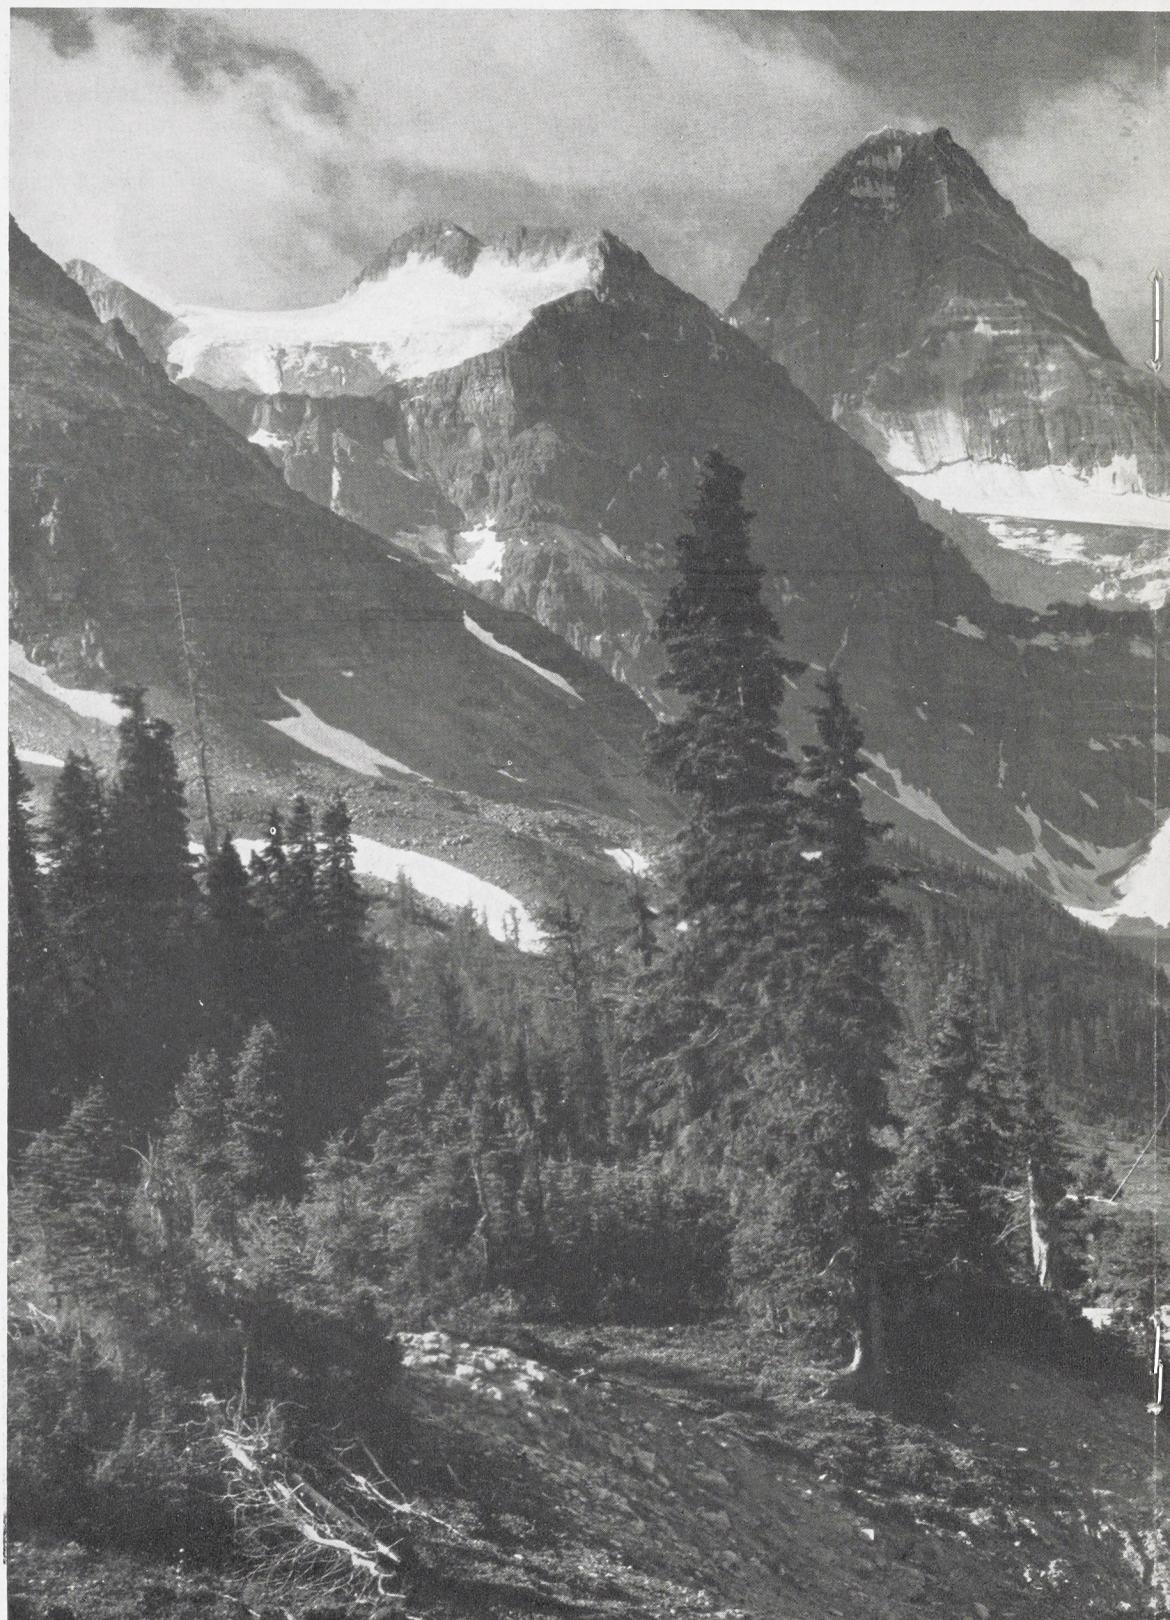

But the value of success is nothing, compared to the value of a year not wasted.

Stoney Indians at Banff

HISTORIC TRAILS

The route of the 1941 Trail Ride will follow to some extent in reverse the trail ridden in 1845 by the celebrated Jesuit Missionary, Father de Smet, on his way from the Kootenay Indian lodges to the camps of the Blackfeet in the Canadian prairies. Tradition has it that White Man's Pass got its name because this missionary came through to Canmore from the West that way. He rode by a pass through the low range of mountains west of Lake Windermere and then after crossing the Kootenay River came through the old Assiniboine Pass by way of the Spray Lakes to the White Man's Pass. Father de Smet's object was to placate the Blackfeet Indians who were constantly making raids on the Flathead Indians.

Mount Assiniboine got its name from the Assiniboine or Stoney Indians. The word "Assiniboine" means "he who cooks with stones." The Assiniboine or Stoney Indians were originally Sioux, who were continually at war with the Dakotas, and broke away from the Sioux to move northward to the hunting grounds of the Crees, who seem to have welcomed them.

Alexander Henry, furtrader and explorer, visited a camp of the Assiniboine, in 1776, and describes them as most hospitable:

"One-half of the tent was appropriated to our use. Several women waited upon us to make a fire and bring water, which latter they fetched from a neighboring tent. Shortly after our arrival these women brought us water, unasked for, saying that it was for washing. The refreshment was exceedingly acceptable, for on our march we had become so dirty that our complexions were not very distinguishable from those of the Indians themselves."

The same women presently borrowed our kettle, telling us that they wanted to boil something for us to eat. Soon after we heard the voice of a man passing through the village and making a speech as he went. Our interpreter informed us that his speech contained an invitation to a feast, accompanied by a proclamation in which the people were required to behave with decorum toward the strangers, and apprised that the soldiers has orders to punish those who should do otherwise.

While we were procuring this explanation an Indian, who appeared to be a chief, came into our tent and invited us to the feast, adding that he would himself show us the way. We followed him accordingly, and he carried us to the tent of the great chief, which we found neither more ornamented nor better furnished than the rest.

At our entrance the chief arose from his seat, saluted us in the Indian manner by shaking hands, and addressed us in a few words, in which he offered his thanks for the confidence which we had reposed in him in trusting ourselves so far from our own country. After we were seated, which was on bear skins spread on the ground, the pipe, as usual, was introduced and presented in succession to each person present. Each took his whiff and then let it pass to his neighbour. The stem, which was four feet in length, was held by an officer attendant on the chief. The bowl was of red marble or pipestone."

When the Dominion Government took over the old so-called Rupert's Land from the Hudsons' Bay Company, the problem arose as to Indian title in this land. A number of treaties were negotiated, particularly by the Hon. Alexandre Morris whose engaging personality secured the respect and confidence of the Indian Chiefs. In 1877 the Assiniboine or Stoney Indians together with the Bloods, Peigans and Blackfeet entered into a treaty with Lieut. Governor Daniel Laird of the Northwest Territories and Col. McLeod, Commissioner of the North West Territories, under which these tribes secured as reservations large tracts of land and special privileges. The largest reservation of the Stoney Indians is at Morley, east of Banff, Alberta, and it is from this reservation that Claude Brewster selects the Indian guides and helpers who for the last two years have proved so welcome an acquisition to the Annual Trail Ride. The Stoney come in their hundreds to Banff for the Indian Days Celebrations, which in 1941 will be held from July 7 to 20.

On our ride back to Banff, over the trail which crosses the Simpson Summit and follows down Healey Creek, we shall be travelling along another historic trail in reverse. For just a hundred years ago, in 1841, Sir George Simpson, Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, rode up Healey Creek and over the Pass now known as Simpson Pass on the first lap of the first overland journey Round the World. The blaze cut on a tree by James Rowand, the Hudson's Bay Company factor who accompanied Simpson, was found by Jim Brewster in the year 1900, and remains one of his most treasured possessions. It is interesting to think that on our Annual Trail Ride this Summer we shall be celebrating the Centenary of Sir George Simpson's journey.

Our pace will be more leisurely than that of Simpson, who was evidently a hustler, for he travelled mostly on horseback from Edmonton to Colville on the Columbia River, about a thousand miles, at an average rate of forty miles a day.
